Use Your Strengths for a Courageous Mindset

Take a moment to think about one of your personal strengths—for instance, creativity, perseverance, kindness, modesty, or curiosity. Consider how you could use this strength today in a new and different way.

For example, if you choose the personal strength of perseverance, you might make a list of tasks that you have found challenging recently, then try to tackle each one of them. Or if you choose curiosity, you might attempt an activity that you have never tried before.

| Reflect: Write in detail about what you did, how you felt, and what you learned from the experience of using one of your personal strengths? |

Mindful Moai (18 minutes) https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=RBUg3qeMFR8

Once you finish, make notes about your insights. These can help to inform your goals, identify what you can control, and help you realize your own bravery as you move forward.

- 1. Set an intention
- 2. Reflect on something to:
 - a. Stop (that is not serving you)
 - b. Start (that will serve you well)
 - c. Continue (working well for you)
- 3. Acknowledge your progress

Managing Change with WOOP

Sense of agency is your control or influence in a situation. This activity to manage change uses WOOP, a planning tool and celebratory expression. Think of a goal that you want to accomplish. Daydream about the outcome of achieving this goal. Now, imagine what might hold you back. Create a plan to prepare for an obstacle that you might face, using the if/then format. For example: If (this obstacle comes up), then I will (take this action). Once you have drafted your plan, see how a series of small action steps can help you manage change.
